

VOCES NUEVAS PROGRAM

Voces Nuevas is a student advocacy and leadership program designed to elevate, uplift, and empower undergraduate students' voices and experiences.

Program Overview: The Voces Nuevas program promotes the advocacy and leadership development of college students at HACU-member institutions. Students increase their knowledge and skillsets, receive practical tools used in creating change, and learn from diverse subject matter experts leading advocacy work across the nation.

Program Benefits:

- Attend virtual presentations featuring HACU representatives, public policymakers, and allied organizations.
- Engage with like-minded students and professionals.
- Receive communications on HACU's advocacy efforts.

Sophomores, juniors, or seniors enrolled in an undergraduate degree program at a HACU-member institution are encouraged to sign up.

Learning from other advocates who have been on the front lines fighting for change was invaluable. Every single speaker that came on zoom provided insight into the world of advocacy, making the experience truly enriching. Overall, the program exceeded my expectations and equipped me with the skills and confidence to continue making a difference.
